

When the mercury dropped 40 degrees to register 22 above zero in Hope Thursday morning it was the weather man's way of emphasizing the fact that this has been Northern Winter regardless where you live.

In a normal south Arkansas winter you find, when tuning in on midnight weather reports of the long-distance radio stations, that there is 15 to 20 degrees difference between Hope and St. Louis with considerably greater difference between Hope and Chicago. But they're pretty much alike this year. One of the big Eastern stations, WCAU, 1210, Philadelphia, comes to Hope, and it's been an education this season to check the mid-night (1 a. m. EST) temperature down the East Coast from Maine to Florida. At midnight Thursday (1 a. m. Friday EST) WCAU reported the temperature in Philadelphia to be 24. A reasonably accurate calculation of the Hope temperature at the same moment was 25 degrees, and our official low before morning was 22.

The farm population around Hope is getting a big kick out of the published list of names attached to $1 fines for overtime parking in the downtown district. But a business man who paid a fine only this morning tells me he figures that he has saved more than the amount of the penalty in gasoline he has to burn while hunting for a parking place.

After writing yesterday's note about the merchant who keeps an alarm clock at the store to sound off before the two-hour deadline expires, thought of something else. Medical laboratory workers used to carry a special watch which had an alarm feature. This could be better than an alarm clock. If you're out of the office you don't hear the clock—but a watch travels around with you.

Or am I making this too complicated?

Chicago dispatch on this page yesterday reports former secretary and subcommittee are organizing a "Group MacArthur for President Club."

Their reason for opposing MacArthur might be one you would disagree with; but their action is the inevitable protest of a civilian republic confronted by a professional military candidate. You would have heard a similar cry against Eisenhower had he not wisely chosen instead of the political arena the life-time job of heading Columbia university.

Cowboy Prior Pledges to Do What I Think is Right
By JAMES THRASHER
The last time John L. Lewis walked out of the American Federation of Labor he announced his departure with this brief message: "We disaffiliate." When Sen. Glen H. Taylor walked out of the Democratic Party the other day he was not content with such a simple valedictory. He had a lot to say—perhaps even one sentence too much.

The shingling cowboy from Idaho confessed that he felt good to be free of the big-city bosses. He was glad he was not obliged to follow a program laid down "by Mr. Pew, Colonel McCormick, Senator Taft and the National Association of Manufacturers." He rejoiced that he could "come swinging" and "without fear of stepping on the prejudices or privileges of some unsavory associate—no Paulseys, no oil, no Wall Street, no generals." Probably Mr. Taylor should have said he was glad to leave the press conference that followed his radio address, reporters asked him about the report that Communists were flocking to the third party standard.

I'm glad to have their vote. I'd be glad to have the votes of bank robbers if I can get elected to do what I think is right," he replied.

What Mr. Taylor thinks is right is obviously what Mr. Taylor wants to do. So let us put his statement in this way: "I'd be glad to have the votes of bank robbers if I can get elected to do what I want to do."

There is the essence of the worst type of political bossism. And we are not twisting Mr. Taylor's words to state it. Ask any boss: "Do you think that what you are doing is right?" and how many do you think would answer no?

"Mr. Taylor now thinks himself free of 'unsavory associates.' But he and Mr. Wallace surely know that if they were to drop their bank robber and Communist and assorted ragtag and bobtail would expect something in return.

A political candidate half as high-minded as Mr. Taylor presents himself to be would reject the support of the criminal, the disloyal, and all other unsavory characters. If he had the only true gospel of political salvation, as Messrs. Wallace and Taylor think they have, he would never make such a statement as the Idaho senator.

The truly high-minded candidate would the support of like-minded people. He cannot avoid the practical. Continued on Page Two

Truman Pledges U. S. Against Communism

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, March 12 — (AP) — President Truman today pledged the country's full political power and prestige against the spread of communism anywhere — including China.

At the same time a five-point administration plan began to emerge; a plan for coming to grips with the Secretary of State Marshall considers a "great crisis" in the world.

Within a few hours of each other, both the president and his secretary of state spoke out with extraordinary frankness on the state of affairs resulting from the bitter conflict between Russia and the western powers.

Chief executive admitted that his faith in the attainment of a real world peace has been somewhat shaken. He said so at a White House news conference late yesterday.

Marshall, appearing last night before a meeting of the Federal Council of Churches, declared flatly that "the world is in the midst of a great crisis, inflamed by propaganda, misunderstanding, anger and fear."

The president was in the audience and heard Marshall couple with his pronouncement of crisis thinking and cool judgment on the part of the American people.

Mr. Truman himself had said earlier that Americans should be careful not to let their passions get the better of them before they know all the facts.

Out of the president's news conference comments and Marshall's brief speech came the pattern of administration policy for meeting the crisis.

Officials expect that crisis to reach a climax first and most directly in the Italian political campaigns leading up to elections there April 18. Here are the points which the president, the secretary — or both — have stressed:

1. The European recovery program — which is now near final action in the Senate but awaits House debate — should be carried out promptly.

2. The president's State encourages the formation of what Marshall called a political association in western Europe as the first step to restoring stability.

3. The spread of Communist governments anywhere in the world, including China, is opposed by the American government. And Mr. Truman indicated this country would do everything in its power to block Communism.

4. The United States will continue to work for world peace wherever possible, but the problem is now more difficult than at any time since the end of the war.

Meanwhile the American people must keep their fears and "passions" under control in spite of what Marshall called the "distractions" of election year campaigns here at home.

Discussion of American foreign policy came on the eve of the first anniversary of the Truman doctrine which he proclaimed a year ago today. At that time he asked Congress for $400,000,000 to help Greece fight its internal Communist rebellion and to strengthen Turkey against the political and territorial demands of Russia.

U. S. May Give Up Palestine Partition Plan

New York, March 12 — (UP) — Responsible United Nations sources expressed the belief today that the United States has abandoned the UN program for partitioning Palestine.

The sources said the United States' attitude virtually guaranteed that the UN must retreat from its three-months-old decision to divide the Holy Land into independent Arab and Jewish states.

The sources refused to be quoted by name, but it can be reported that a substantial segment of the UN diplomatic corps has become convinced that American officials have reversed their stand on the Palestine issue and now favor a revision of the partition decision.

This sentiment was not restricted to supporters of partition in the United Nations. Some opponents of the UN Palestine plan, it was known, have expressed certainty that the present American attitude means the UN will back down from partition. These persons expect a formal Palestine plan for transferring Palestine into a federated Arab-Jewish state.

The American position has created some apprehensions among the diplomats and UN employees who believe that a retreat from the partition program will be a fatal blow for the world organization.

The new American attitude toward the UN Palestine decision appeared to some to be reflected in the position of American Delegate Warren R. Austin in the private big power consultations on partition.

Austin's insistence on consulting with Arabs and Jews threatened to break up the talks, which were slated to resume this afternoon (at about 2:30 p. m. EST) in the headquarters of the French UN delegates.

American sources said Austin would insist on calling in Jews and Arabs despite the announcement by Andrei A. Gromyko that Russia would "not participate" in Arab-Jewish reconciliation attempts at this stage.

Clear Skies Bring Hope of Relief

Little Rock, March 12 — (AP) — Clear skies and bright sunshine brought Arkansas some measure of relief today from the worst March cold wave on record.

Fair weather again tomorrow, and warmer during the afternoon, is predicted.

Little Rock, prepared for 10 degrees weather last night, registered a low of 17. Paragould reported 14 degrees.

Highways in the northern section are still hazardous, because of the ice and snow.

Nation Gets Relief
Chicago, March 12 — (AP) — Relief appeared on the way for a wide-spread section of the country from the Rockies to the North Atlantic coast and into the Texas Rio Grande Valley.

But below seasonal temperatures and snow storms which swept over the area at the end of a bitter winter season caused widespread hardship and threatened to cause heavy damage to crops.

Heavy drifts of snow blocked highways in many sections of the Midwest and Southwest. Thousands of cars and trucks were stalled in Ohio, Oklahoma and other parts of the snow belt. Schools in some areas were closed.

The falling temperatures caused crop shortages in some states. Industrial and business activities were curtailed in Kansas, Texas, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Kentucky.

Texas was hard hit by the severe weather, which was the coldest on record for March. Two persons here died because of the cold. There was heavy damage to livestock and crops. The State Department of Agriculture said 150,000 acres of cotton in the Rio Grande Valley were in danger of being destroyed by frost.

Tomatoes, corn and citrus fruits also were endangered as below freezing temperatures were forecast for the semi-tropical valley.

The snow had ceased falling over most of the country today.

Truman Brands Parson's Story a Lie

Washington, March 12 — (AP) — President Truman yesterday branded as "a lie out of the whole cloth" Columnist Drew Pearson's report that the chief executive once had termed New York Jews disloyal.

Pearson, whom the president did not identify by name, insisted later that his version was "all too accurate." He added:

"But I'm glad the president has now reconsidered his intemperate words."

Mr. Truman opened his news conference with the denial and said his remarks could be quoted directly, a departure from usual procedure.

He told the reporters to read the New York Mirror to find out about the column. The newsmen heard the president use the word "gossip paper," but the word "gossip" was omitted in this official White House version of his remarks.

"First, I want to pay attention to a vicious statement that was made by a columnist in a New York United States which he said I had made the statement here to an editor of a New York paper that the Jews in New York were disloyal."

"I had thought I wouldn't have to add another liar's star to that fellow's crown, but I will have to add this, that is just a lie out of the whole cloth. It is as emphatic as I can put it."

In his "Washington Merry-Go-Round" column Monday in the Mirror, Pearson wrote:

"President Truman was talking to a New York publisher about Palestine here to an editor of a New York paper that the Jews in New York were disloyal."

"They're disloyal to their country. Disloyal!" he cried.

"Would you explain that further, Mr. President?" interrupted the publisher, whose wife happens to be Jewish.

"When you speak of New York Jews are you referring to such people as Bernard Baruch? Or are you referring to such New York Jews as my wife?"

"Truman glared, assured his visitor he did not mean to include Baruch or the publisher's wife — then abruptly changed the subject."

In New York, an executive of Bell Syndicate, which distributes Pearson's column, said he knows but can't name the source of the story, adding: "We consider it to be fairly reliable."

By OLIVER W. DeWOLF
Washington, March 12 — (AP) — The "great crisis" Secretary of State Marshall says is gripping the world sped the Senate toward a crucial vote today on his European recovery program.

The issue was whether the Marshall plan bill should carry the $3,300,000,000 first year figure now planned or be cut to $4,000,000,000 as proposed by Senator Taft (R-Ohio).

Friends and foes alike agreed that today's vote would be the major test.

The bill itself is due to be approved — with one amount or the other — late tonight or tomorrow.

Senate leaders called an unusual night session in an effort to reach a decision this week. They acknowledged that the chances are slim for a vote before tomorrow.

After the Senate acts, the bill will go to the House which yesterday was asked by President Truman to give western Europe an additional $55,000,000 in stipend aid by April 1.

It then will go to the House, which yesterday was asked by President Truman to give western Europe an additional $55,000,000 in stipend aid by April 1.

The president said the money is needed to keep the supply lines to non-Communist countries filled until Marshall plan help is available. And he termed it a matter of "extreme urgency" that the plan itself be approved quickly.

Congressional leaders now estimate this will be about April 10 — just eight days before the Italian elections which may bring the crisis to its first climax.

Mr. Truman later told his news conference that his confidence in eventual world peace has been shaken somewhat by recent developments abroad. But he quickly added that he still believes peace can be achieved.

Marshall further underscored the gravity with which American leaders view the world's turmoil when he said that a Federal Council of Churches meeting last night:

"The world is in the midst of a great crisis, inflamed by propaganda, misunderstanding, anger and fear."

The Senate debate on that program took an unexpected turn yesterday when Taft, a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, Continued on Page Two

Edwards to Supervise City Job

Following the advertising of bids for a condenser pit and turbine foundation at the municipal Water and Light Plant March 10, at which time E. W. Edwards of Hope was the sole bidder, the Board of Public Affairs yesterday canceled the bidding and negotiated a contract with Mr. Edwards to supervise the job and furnish certain equipment for a flat fee of $10,000.

Estimated cost of the job as a municipal operation is around $17,000, as against contractor's bid of almost $19,000.

It was brought out in board discussion that the construction, made necessary by the city's purchase of a new 1,500 KW generator set to be delivered, requires excavation work below the foundation of the power plant building, and because of this hazard it might be better for the city itself to assume financial responsibility for the job.

Flowers Have More Drawing Power in Manhattan Than Bike Races, Wrestling Matches

By HAL BOYLE
New York, March 12 — (AP) — Flowers have more drawing power than bike races and six-day bicycle riders in the asphalt acres of Manhattan.

The subway farmers and cliff dwelling windowbox waterers are proving that this week at the Kennedy Derby of the garden world — the International Flower Show — Each year this big league flower extravaganza attracts about 150,000 spectators. Everybody comes but Ferdinand the bull.

They even run special trains from New England and charter buses in Raleigh, N. C., to bring in the dogwood and rhododendron fans. And yes, indeed! — people try to pick the flowers right out of the displays, and they've got 69 husky guards on duty just to prevent them.

This year more than 1,000 contestants are striving for prizes in 25 main events. There are more minor feuds and vendettas in the four-acre display than you'd find at a tri-annual reunion of the Hatfields, McCoys and the Borgias.

But in a real emergency the people who bring the outdoors indoors really help each other. When Don Roehrs, 33-year-old, Rochester, N. J., landscape contractor, at the last moment needed some soil and a few flowers to complete his rock-walled Normandy garden display, other exhibitors generously pitched in.

Roehrs' exhibit then won the grand prize as the best garden of the show. Its construction was supervised by Lowell Kennedy, 32, a three-wounded war veteran.

He saw a lot of Normandy walls while doing some landscape work overseas with a machine gun.

The rabid enthusiasm of some of the elderly spectators is a source of worry to show officials, who keep a nurse handy to revive those overcome by zinnia-excitement.

A 78-year-old grandmother sneaked on a freight elevator in order to crash the show before it got too hot for her.

An old man suffered his first heart attack the day the show opened, but as he was carried off promised: "I'll be back!" To him and many other people who come here flowers are the most important things in life.

One elderly lady fainted and was placed in a wheel chair. She came to as they were rolling her to an elevator and murmured graciously: "This reminds me of Atlantic City."

Western Powers Sign Treaty to Halt Communism

Brussels, Belgium, March 12 — (AP) — Britain, France and the Benelux nations adopted today a 50-point treaty for a political economic and military union of Western Europe intended to check the march of Communism.

Conference officials said the accord and Allied documents will be signed here next Wednesday by the foreign ministers of Belgium, Britain, France, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

The text of the agreement will not be released until the signature ceremony, to give the five governments of the negotiators opportunity to examine it closely, the officials said.

Delegates from the five countries, including four of the world's greatest colonial powers, completed their efforts on the Western Union suggested in January by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, at 11:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m. cst), after a three-day session.

The treaty, reportedly containing a preamble and 10 clauses, was believed to bind the five countries to mutual assistance in the face of aggression, mutual aid in the economic field, cooperation in improving their living standards and a measure of coordination of colonial resources.

One of the final points before the conference, it was learned, was whether the treaty should name Germany as a possible aggressor. There was no definite indication as to the decision reached.

Bomb Threat Empties U.S. Consulate

Jerusalem, March 12 — (AP) — An anonymous bomb threat today emptied the United States consulate building, 300 yards from the blasted Jewish agency headquarters where 13 were killed and nearly 100 were injured in a recent attack.

American personnel returned to their offices after an hour-long search by police failed to turn up any explosives. The consular staff had moved out after a telephone caller said in English:

"Get out of the building — it will blow up in five minutes."

The building also is used as a residence by Consul General Robert E. McAttee, Consul William Porter and Vice Consul Willis Stabler.

In Tel Aviv, the Jewish agency announced its ratification of a merger of two Jewish fighting forces, Hagannah and Irgun Zvai Leumi, backed by the Jewish Agency, which agreed to strengthen the Jewish fight against the Arabs over partition. Hagannah previously has assailed Irgun for terrorist acts which it charged were hurting the Jewish cause. Jewish sources say Irgun has agreed to cease its attacks upon British forces now withdrawing from the Holy Land.

Hagannah, the official militia of the Jewish agency, has a shock force of more than 10,000 paid soldiers. Irgun, an underground organization, is reported to have more than 1,000 men.

News About Anti-MacArthur Clubs to Be Limited for Broadcast to Men in Japan

Tokyo, March 12 — (AP) — General MacArthur's key staff officers complained today about a news broadcast that "anti-MacArthur" veterans clubs are being organized in the United States. They announced a policy of limiting broadcasts by the armed forces radio here to "factual events" in the chief's presidential campaign.

Organization of U. S. clubs opposing MacArthur's candidacy was reported in a news summary broadcast by the armed forces radio in Japan, station WVTB, last night. The summary also included news of activities by MacArthur supporters.

The officers said the new policy will not apply to a regular 10 p. m. Tokyo time) shortwave broadcast from Los Angeles, which is heard throughout Japan through WVTB.

They acknowledged the "policy" might bring criticism that "military and civilian absentee voters in Japan — of whom there are tens of thousands — are being deprived of a chance to weigh all sides. Roundups of opinion on both sides might be used later, they said.

Allied headquarters censorship over the Japanese press has permitted several news stories. These included criticism of MacArthur as a military man, for his long absence from the United States since 1937 and that he has not announced a platform. Several other stories are being held up, although it is understood that none has been killed.

It was understood also that Allied headquarters censorship received no new instructions regarding the United States presidential campaign.

The general policy has been to delete criticism of MacArthur as supreme commander of the occupation, or as an individual under the occupation policy which reformed the occupation is not permitted.

MacArthur has issued a blunt verbal order against any political activity at headquarters.

Before the verdict was read, Meyers was told to stand up to hear it.

Grand Jury Receives Meyers Case

Washington, March 12 — (AP) — A federal grand jury began considering evidence today against Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, accused of witness tampering.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff turned the case over the jury upon completion of his charge, which required one hour and 38 minutes. The jury to decide Meyers' guilt or innocence is made up of 10 men and two women. The trial has required three weeks.

The dapper, 52-year-old Meyers, now retired and stripped of his military honors, is charged with subornation of perjury — inducing another man to lie — at a Senate inquiry into the general's business affairs.

Meyers could receive a 30-year maximum sentence if found guilty on all three counts against him.

The man Meyers allegedly persuaded to lie is Bleriot H. Lamare, 38-year-old former business agent who already has pleaded guilty to separate perjury charges and is awaiting sentence.

Lamar testified at the trial that he was lying he falsely denied in Senate testimony that he had received $150,000 in wartime payments from the Aviation Electric Corp., a plane parts firm at Dayton, Ohio.

But Lamar said he later told the Senate Committee the "truth" about Meyers after consulting a lawyer.

Meyers put up no personal defense. Instead, his attorneys argued to the jury that Lamar had never lied to the Senate Committee at all. (MORE)

Harmony Pleas Not Likely to Help Democrats

By JACK BELL
Washington, March 12 — (AP) — Two Dixie senators pleaded today on the eve of a showdown meeting of Southern governors' rebels to fight out the battle without quitting on their own accord.

But the harmony plea of Alabama's Democratic Sen. J. Morgan Kousser and Sparkman — as well as peace gesture by Sen. J. B. Battle — seemed by on itself empty.

Mr. Truman told a conference he won't send a bill to Capitol Hill to carry out a point civil rights program which caused the southern revolt.

It is not clear whether to write its own ticket, the president said. He would be glad to help, if asked. But he didn't talk as though he expected to be asked.

His "is-up-to-you" attitude was looked upon as a reminder to Dixie Democrats that if any race equality laws are enacted, Mr. Truman alone shouldn't be blamed.

But most of the Southern Democrats continued to direct the blame his way anyway.

They have made it plain they are after the president's political scalp — a situation that gave the party's executive committee something to talk about as it got ready for a White House luncheon with the president.

The Southern governors, beginning to arrive for a conference tomorrow, seemed likely to hoist a no-surround banner and map a fresh attack on the anti-poll tax, anti-lynching, and anti-Jim Crow measures asked by the president.

They will get a report from four of their number on an "unsatisfactory" meeting with Democratic National Chairman Charles McNamara on the civil rights issue.

McGrath said, among other things, that the party couldn't agree to withdraw the president's program.

Despite this attitude, Hill took the lead in urging Southerners to try for a compromise within the Democratic ranks.

"The Democratic party in the past has resolved its differences in the Democratic national convention," Hill told an Alabama delegation audience last night. "I believe that we can do so again."

Hill, running as a pro-Truman candidate for delegate to the Philadelphia convention, said that the South leaves the party if it would Continued on page two

Rate Making Group Is Challenged

Little Rock, March 12 — (AP) — The Arkansas-Missouri Power Company has challenged the rate-making formulas of the Arkansas Public Service Commission.

The company petitioned the commission to revise its Dec. 22, 1947 order, which established a new rate-making formula and lowered the company's rates by $175,000 annually.

The petition said the Dec. 22 order "will result in gross injustices and inequities and x x as it now stands is unfair, unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious."

The company, with principal offices in Blytheville, operates in southeastern Missouri and northeastern Arkansas.

The PSC's December order established the company's plant investment rates for making purposes at 10 percent, a six percent annual depreciation on the investment and new rate schedules.

These formulas were challenged following lengthy hearings on the rate and financial structure of Arkansas Power and Light Company. At the time they resulted in a $1,075,000 rate reductions for A. P. customers.

Ark-Mo's new petition said there have been marked changes in the economic changes since the formulas were established and since the PSC made the investigation resulting in its Dec. 22 order.

The petition is the first general attack on the rate making procedure and if pressed might result in a full dress rate hearing, PSC attaches said.

single-handedly offered an amendment to slash the program by $1,300,000,000.

Senators Wherry (Neb) and Ball (Iowa) had indicated earlier that such an amendment would be offered by the 20-member Republican revisionist group they head.

Wherry pledged that the revisionists would back Taft in his fight against the program. He said the program was "a waste of money" and that the revisionists would "cut it out of the budget."

Thus the Marshall plan ran into new trouble in the House.

There Republican members of the Foreign Affairs Committee agreed to expand the European recovery program to include military aid for China, as well as Greece and Turkey.

Chairman Eaton (N.J.) said the committee's original idea for a "broad" plan will be sent to the House but will be a two-section measure.

One section will deal with "economic relief and assistance" for Western Europe and China, he said; the other with military aid for China, Greece and Turkey.

If this plan is carried out and approved by the House, a time-consuming compromise will have to be reached with the Senate.

The Senate to date has taken no action on the administration's request for $70,000,000 in economic aid for China and $275,000,000 in military assistance for Greece and Turkey. President Truman has asked no military help for China.

Arabs Expect to Lose a Million Men

Arabs leaders say they expect to lose "a million men" before the strife in Palestine is over.

They predict a three-month blitzkrieg beginning with 24 hours after the British give up their mandate in May. They say tanks, artillery and bombers will attack Jewish communities.

They have repeated their determination to resist to death "any force which tries to partition Palestine."

Six months ago such threats would have been ridiculed by middle eastern observers. Today they are being heeded and regarded as "possibilities."

The Arab resistance to partition of Palestine is led by the Arab higher executive, a group of Palestinian Arabs headed by the former Grand Mufti of Jerusalem. It also has the complete support and backing of all the Arab League states in the Middle East.

Seldom in Moslem history has anything united the warring, bickering Arabs as has the opposition to partitioning. It has assumed all the aspects of a holy war which their leaders swear to eliminate and "free" the state established in Palestine.

The Arabs are extremely bitter at the United Nations and at American pressure. They argue that American pressure on the United Nations is "a betrayal of the Jewish people, therefore, the vote was not an honest parliamentary action."

The Arabs have been conducting small-scale guerrilla raids on Jewish settlements and communications for the last few weeks. They plan to step up these activities in the coming months.

Originally the Arab strategy was to arm quietly and prepare themselves during the winter months, but to give no indication of their strength. Then, once the British evacuated, they planned to close in with a series of surprise attacks and overwhelm the Jews.

The Doctor Says:

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service
Osteomyelitis is a disease of the bones caused by invasion of germs which destroy the bone and produce pus. It is an old disease; signs of osteomyelitis have been found in long buried bones of ancient man. In the past treatment has been discouraging and difficult. Severe cases even as late as the 18th century were treated by amputation. All kinds of strange mixtures were applied to the tissue around the infected bone including herbs, powdered and meat as a pulp but will bear watching as forerunners of the development of modern surgery has done much for the patient with chronic osteomyelitis.

Time flattened out and stood quite still and no one moved breath or made a sound. She saw suddenly a man chasing through her, that already she had made a mistake.

She shouldn't have said Tommy had been murdered. To all but one person sitting there on the big pleasant porch it was an outrageous thing to say.

Sam Blanding turned to Rush uncomfortably.

"Well, you see, Sam—" Rush began. "Doggone, man, yes. Some of these things do happen. But Ann's overwrought. She's reading something into these things that simply isn't there."

"What about the gas?" Rush looked grim and angry.

"Well, it was on. And she did nearly—it was a close shave. But Sam, the thing is there's no doubt she turned the gas on herself. Now, wait—, as the others would have spoken, "I'm not implying that she was trying to commit suicide. I haven't thought that for a minute. But—"

"Suicide!" Ann breathed the whisper. She shrank back in the chair, away from Rush.

"You see, there's a simple explanation for all of it. And Ann would see it too if she weren't so upset." Rush turned sad eyes on Ann for a moment but she refused to look at him.

"Of course there's a simple explanation," she cried. "And I've told you what it is. Someone—"

She could feel her lips begin to shake again—"someone is trying to kill me!"

But even to her own ears it sounded like fantastic charge.

It has become possible to clean out and scrape the infected bone thus permitting healing. Ingenious instruments have been introduced to aid in the work of boring into the bone and scraping out infected material.

One of the most interesting forms of treatment has been the use of maggots. Maggots eat only tissue that is dead. Thus, if they are placed in an area containing dead bone and other dead cells, they destroy the dead material and clean up the cavity without harming that part of the bone which is alive and healthy. Although an old form of treatment for chronic osteomyelitis, it is still popular among some authorities.

New Developments
Recently new methods of attack on osteomyelitis have been developed. These include sulfa, penicillin and streptomycin. They have made it possible to save many people with osteomyelitis from months or even years of hospitalization and repeated surgery.

Long-Stemmed Suits on Parade, Jackets Team Up With Prints

By EPSIE KINARD, NEA Fashion Editor.
NEW YORK (NEA)—Easter-parade suits which look as long-stemmed and neat as a tulip bud will bear watching as forerunners of a new fashion trend.

There's an example of this closer-sheathing trend in the Hattie Carnegie-designed suit (right) of blue tulle-checked wool. The rib-cinching jacket is tabbed at neckline and cuffs; the skirt helps shape up a sharper silhouette, softened by the briefest of pleated pelplums.

Almost as closely-sheathed is the Anna Miller-designed suit (center) of beige woolen lined with white collar and cuffs. This suit's taut silhouette is contoured only at the hip line with a crinoline-stiffened pelplum, which the designer calls a "parasol."

Hewings to the long-stemmed line are two suits of pastel plaid. Like the Philip Mangano model at left, they come ensembled for an early Easter parade with pale woolen coats. This slimly-contoured suit of pink plaid shrugs off a plaid-trimmed, mauve-colored top; it's softened by rib-cutting and patch pockets for slight hip emphasis on the cardigan jacket.

DOROTHY DIX Men Without Ambition

Sunday School Lesson
The International Sunday School Lesson for March 14
Scripture: Ephesians 5:6-21
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The passage chosen for our lesson, ending with Ephesians 5:21, leaves out, perhaps discreetly, the verses which follow in which Paul admonishes wives to submit themselves to their husbands "as unto the Lord." Of course Paul had already counseled the Christians to submit themselves "one to another in the fear of the Lord." The injunction concerning wives might have substantial warrant if husbands were equally enjoined to give respect and submission to their wives.

However, this may be one basic sphere in which character counts, and in which the worth of Christian character is increasingly and greatly needed in home and family life. It seems incredible, but one third of the marriages in the U.S. are now ending in divorce. Though this low state has not been reached in Canada, divorces there have greatly increased.

The situation in Canada may be due to the fact that legal barriers to divorce until recently were almost prohibitive. Absence of divorces may not in itself have implied a better home life and superior marital happiness. But I think the place in an area containing divorces is greater in Canada than in the U.S., where civil marriage ceremonies and a secular view of marriage have become much more common.

This is a temperance lesson, and temperance is a large factor in this matter of good homes and happy marriages. Temperance in its largest aspect means restraint and self-control.

It is perhaps best ascribed in the good New Testament word "forbearance." Tempers do not necessarily have to be over-eager to bring trouble into home life. Extremes of egotism, or of stubbornness, or of determination to have one's own way, or lack of consideration for others can often prove as disastrous.

Paul speaks in this passage of the "fruit of the Spirit," and elsewhere he is more specific in telling what this means. "The fruit of the Spirit," he says (Galatians 5:22-23), "is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance."

Against these, he says, there is no law. Rather do they constitute in themselves the law of the good life and good relations, whether it be in home, school, office, factory, or wherever good relations are needed for a happy nation and good international neighborhood.

QUESTION: I get bad canker sores in my mouth frequently. What can be done for this?
ANSWER: There appear to be several possible causes for canker sores. Some are believed to be due to low-grade infection, some to a deficiency. It is impossible to prescribe for them without investigation in each case. Consult your physician for specific advice.

HARRASSED
Answer: In urging you to throw away your self-respect and decency your husband is evidently trying to drag you down to his own level and pin a scandal on you that will enable him to get a divorce so that he will not have to pay you any alimony. Don't let him do it.

He does not love you, or he would not so insult you, and I can't imagine how you can love anything but loathing for him. His defense that this is the Modern Age is idiotic. There has never been any Modern Age about vice. It has always been with us.

Try to use a little common sense in doing with your problem, instead of weakly permitting your husband to make a caspaw of you.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 87 years old and I have just found the way to handle a quarrel with my wife. She was awfully mad at me the other day and just pouring it out on me. I said: "Ada, wait a minute. Let's wait until our honeymoon is over. You know we have only been married 25 years." That made her laugh and the quarrel was over. Humor sometimes helps.

J.P.S.
Answer: These are words of wisdom to which I call the attention of all husbands and wives. Laugh over your spats and you will kiss and make up.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am engaged to a man who has everything to recommend him as good husband material except ambition and the knack of bringing home bacon to feed a family. Fair Enough

This is the fourth installment of a series of articles presenting and discussing a sheaf of letters which have been banded in our national politics ever since 1940 when Franklin D. Roosevelt personally nominated Henry Wallace for vice president and carried him into office in the third-term campaign. I have tried every way I know how to induce Wallace to admit or deny that he wrote them. He has dodged the issue. In view of the political reality of this material, it seems to me inevitable that Wallace should meet the question. Did he or did he not write them? The question is vital because of the mental condition reflected in this correspondence. The right of a free press imposes on our journalism a duty to publish these documents, known as the Guru letters. As a candidate for president of the United States Wallace has a civic duty to state publicly whether or not he wrote them. I again challenge him to answer.

I present a letter on the letterhead of the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, dated July 27, 1933, addressed to a New York politician connected with the original political and press campaign of Prof. Nicholas Roerich. I know her and I know Wallace knows her. This letter does not express the extraordinary mental condition of most of the letters. It is intended to verify my unqualified charge that Wallace was a member of this circle.

"Dear Miss—," it begins. "I am glad to hear that you are interested in the material I have been associated with. You happen to know Frank Noah? Sincerely yours." It is initialed "H. A. W." In the similar juvenile hand that signed or initialed the rest of the letters and wrote some of them on the fly. Then a handwritten postscript reads: "I have spoken to Dr. Knight about experimenting with white light. It is a special strain subject to cancer. How would it be to see if the drug you have in mind has any effect?"

The addressee was at that time a leading member of the Roerich circle in New York. She is positively known to have been associated with Wallace in many matters.

Here is another letter:

"Dear George: The old House (Department of State) through no fault of its own has been doing something and are calling on me Thursday noon. I shall, of course, take the strongest possible stand which does not violate the law of discretion. I shall take up the matter with the law of discretion. The situation may be very simple and easily solved; but knowing Modra's (Mme. Roerich's) cult, I thought I had better keep you posted so that your father could be prepared for any action if necessary. Will wire Serge Whitman the result of the conference tomorrow evening.

"I am the blessing of the great one shine around my heart trust in the hour of need."

This was initialed G. as in "Galadiah," a cultish name applied to Wallace.

Another letter:

"Dear Guru (or master, the title given to Roerich by his disciples): "A terrific attack is gathering from many different directions but I am well fortified by your directions. The matter I wrote about to you yesterday perhaps seemed unduly but is the kind of thing I have feared continuously for the past year. Probably nothing will come of it at any time in the near future but much concern on the desecration of the dark ones."

"Tell F. I today warned the waverer one (President Roosevelt) of the Hyena servant—(A cult name) because to a close association of Horb's (Roerich) in a sufficiently impressive way."

—expressed fear to me that you and George, being of feline race, might be persona non grata to our friends on whose graces we are so dependent. I assured him that your relationship was of the closest and reassured him somewhat. It is easy to see that his fears are altogether beside the point. I told him and the other two that you and George were entirely responsible for the contact with the authorities, the direction of the cult, the desecration of the dark ones, the relationship with the enemies of the Tiges."

"Otherwise I believe the matter is straightened out. Work in the field will allow this type of fear. How unfortunate to spend energy meeting slime and dirt when the glorious vision is before us. I have read and re-read the indication. May the tireless one abound in reward and strength. May glory and joy and peace surround us in the midst of the mostly fiery strife. Shambala." The initials are "W" and "G."

Another letter is addressed to the woman addressed before. "This letter is from neither a tiger nor a monkey," it says. "It must be very short because I am tired and sleepy after a strenuous day. Enclosed letter to Madame and Professor Roerich. I do not see I would like but time is so occu-

Henry Morgenthau said Henry Wallace told him the new device, which is included in the great seal of the United States, merely spoke a "new deal" for the world. He later discovered that Wallace had slipped over on the Treasury the symbol of a secret religious cult.

In view of all the known facts and circumstances I call again on Henry Wallace to state publicly whether or not he wrote those letters.

Nine Die in Jerusalem Explosion

Jerusalem, March 11 — (AP) — An explosion severely damaged the Jewish agency building today soon after a car flying the American flag was parked in its heavily guarded courtyard.

The Jewish agency, the official organization for Palestine Jewry, said nine persons were killed and 89 injured. Up to 500 persons were in the building and 50 or 60 were in the right wing, which was the worst shattered.

Haganah, the Jewish militia, took charge of the preliminary inquiry indicated the explosive had been under the car's floor. The government said the Jews were barring all police from the scene.

A Haganah informant said wreckage of the automobile indicated it was that of U. S. Consul General Robert B. MacAtee, which was stolen yesterday.

Leib Caffie, chairman of Keren Hayeset, the Jewish National Colonization fund, was reported to have been one of those killed. He was a widely known Zionist leader of Russian birth.

Three minor officials of the agency were reported injured slightly.

"It is not yet known how the blast occurred," a spokesman for the Jewish agency told a noon news conference. "We are told that a car bearing the American flag and number plates of the U. S. consulate drove into the courtyard just before the blast."

"The driver was said by guards to be well known to them as one of the consulate drivers. Orders had been given that personnel of property of foreign consulates must be respected. For that reason, the car was allowed in, without the usual further check."

The spokesman said only the driver was known to have been in the car.

The first dozen or more foreign correspondents and two photographers who reached the scene were shut out of the unguarded rooms for almost an hour. Guards said the reason was that photographs were not to be taken showing men with arms. Armed men were everywhere.

Jews in the building at the time said the automobile with the American flag entered the courtyard through the guarded gate with two men inside. The men parked the car, walked out to a waiting taxi cab, and drove away. The building caught fire after the blast.

First reports from police at the scene of the blast said an explosive-laden truck, perhaps, two trucks — evidently had been driven into the courtyard and touched off. The semi-circular two-story stone-and-concrete building was one of Jerusalem's finest. It housed all archives of the Jewish agency and the most important records of Zionism. First reports indicated many of these escaped destruction.

Actually Secretary Marshall Advises the Public to Keep Cool Despite World Events

By DeWitt MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Marshall's estimate of the world situation as "very, very serious" was couched in language which in effect advised the public to keep cool.

That's the best piece of advice we've had in a long time. We are walking around in a powder factory, and it just isn't a good place in which to toss about lighted matches.

Its natural that anxiety and anger should be produced by the steady stream of hostility which has been developing from the battle between communism and democracy. There seems no end to the flood which comes pouring out of Europe, Asia and the Western hemisphere to make blazing headlines in the press. Even our "peace organization" is a field of bitter conflict.

We don't get a chance to cool off between events, and every few days there's a particularly aggravating development. The rape of Czechoslovakia was one of these. Of course such brutality grooms fears and wrath, and we get boiling mad when old friends like Jan Masaryk are driven to their deaths.

Still its precisely moments like this when we should keep a grip on our passions if we want to iron out this situation without fighting another world war. There are times when even the most peace-minded folk must resort to arms in self-defense. Such a time has not arrived, and there is no certainty that it will arrive.

Now right here let it be said that anyone who didn't recognize the danger of war growing out of the present situation would be crazy. The tempers of both sides in this so-called "cold war" are on edge and it will require cool calculation to keep it from being turned into a hot war.

However, the way it appears from here the democracies have a good chance of holding the European line about where it is without using arms. This column still believes that the barrier of economic rehabilitation projected in the Marshall plan may go a long way toward turning the tide. It now looks as though this would be supported by a western European union of the nations participating in the Marshall plan. This union, as projected by the current Brussels conference, contemplates a fifty year military, political and economic pact.

The determination of the democracies to block the Red tide has been immeasurably strengthened by the fate of Czechoslovakia and the threat to Finland. Countries which previously were wavering now recognize that what happened to Czechoslovakia might happen to them unless they take counter measures.

Then we mustn't overlook that, with the grabbing of Czechoslovakia, Russia has completed the conquests which she laid down as essential to her security. Obviously she wants more; she wants to keep right on going across western Europe. But she doesn't need to push any further in order to satisfy her and is far from likely to resort to desires for "defensive positions, and is far from likely to resort to arms to further her expansion.

We shouldn't let the mistake of thinking that the Bolsheviks are abandoning their world revolution, for they certainly aren't. Italy is in a very dangerous position, lying so close to Red Yugoslavia. France also is under a great threat. Still, western Europe lies outside the range of the Soviet armies which have been so effective in the tak-

Judgment Won Against Colliers

Tallahassee, Fla., March 11 — (UP) — A federal court jury yesterday awarded Gov. Millard Caldwell of Florida $237,500 damages against Colliers magazine.

The magazine made immediate plans to appeal to a higher court. Caldwell had charged that Colliers libeled him by misrepresenting his views on lynching.

A 12-man jury including three Negroes deliberated only two hours before deciding an editorial in the magazine's Feb. 23, 1946 issue had libeled the governor despite Collier's contention it merely had exercised the right of a free press to criticize public officials.

Caldwell had testified that publication of the editorial and subsequent publicity it received had caused Negroes to "distrust" him and cost him the confidence of Florida citizens.

The magazine was expected to appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans. It contended the Tallahassee jury had been prejudiced for the governor by his high position and his promise to donate any award to the Florida A. and M. College for Negroes.

William L. Chenery, publisher of the magazine, said it would "appeal the question of the right of criticism of public officials by the press."

"It's not a question of money," he said, promising to exhaust every judicial process to get a reversal of the verdict. "It's a question of the fundamental principle of our American civilization."

The allegedly libelous article followed the shooting of a Madison County Negro, Jesse James Payne, who killed while awaiting trial for attempting to rape a five year old white girl.

Marshall Still Favors Military Aid

Washington, March 11 — (AP) — A leading Senate critic said today the Senate will vote on the Marshall plan this week.

The European recovery program bearing his name is one of the main issues facing a "very, very serious" world situation. But without referring to that summation by Marshall of Communist-induced "terror" abroad Senator Wherry (R-Ind.) said of the recovery plan debate:

"We will finish up here Saturday night without a doubt." Wherry is the acting Republican floor leader. In that capacity he plans to hold his colleagues in tight session today and tomorrow in a drive to complete Senate action on the $5,300,000,000 assistance program.

The Nebraskaan also is head of a group of some 20 GOP senators who have been highly critical of the program as it stands. In that role, Wherry planned to co-sponsor an amendment today to limit Marshall plan spending to no more than $4,000,000,000 during its first year.

Wherry said, however, the Senate will not act on that major test until tomorrow.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments:

A 74 to 3 vote swept aside a substitute bill by Senator Taylor (D-Iowa) to carry out all foreign aid programs through the United Nations. The proposal also represented the views of Henry Wallace, whom Taylor has joined on a third party ticket. Only Taylor and Senators Pepper (D-Fla.) and Langer (R-Ind.) voted for it.

A voice vote eliminated from the pending bill a provision which would have permitted this country to charter 300 dry cargo vessels to participating nations.

Senator Ball (R-Minn.) said in a weekly newsletter to his home state that to convert the program without trying to solve the problem of European security is to dodge the "paramount issue, namely, that Russian Communist aggression is succeeding."

Gen. MacArthur Has One Real Supporter

Tokyo, March 12 — (AP) — This sign appeared today on a two-story office building: "We wish General MacArthur for president of U.S.A."

It was put there by Toshio Oda, longhaired Japanese poet and building contractor, who said he would send 200,000 yen ($4,000) to help elect MacArthur.

He plans to distribute 10,000 posters printed in English and Japanese.

"Destruction of mankind by the atom bomb is imminent," said Oda. "The only one who can prevent it is General MacArthur."

Measles in State Show Sharp Increase

Little Rock, March 11 — (AP) — A sharp upturn in the incidence of measles in Arkansas was reported today by the state health department.

The department reported 228 new cases of measles last week compared with 194 the preceding week and 178 for the corresponding week of 1947. The new cases brought the year's total to 1,024 compared to 690 at the same time in 1947.

A slump in the new cases of influenza was reported. Last week's record was 249 cases compared to 378 the previous week and 950 in the same week a year ago.

Truman May Give Views on Situation

By R. H. SHACKFORD

Washington, March 11 — (UP) — President Truman, hopeful only a scant two months ago of world peace this year, may disclose today whether his views have changed in light of his secretary of state's warning that the world situation is "very, very serious."

President Truman will hold a news conference at 4 p. m. EST and was certain to be peppered with questions about Secretary of State George C. Marshall's statement yesterday.

Marshall, in an unusual statement, said that "regrettable" passions had been aroused in this country over recent "tragic" events in Europe.

Both Marshall and Mr. Truman face a serious problem. Chairman Charles A. Eaton, R. N. J., of the House Foreign Affairs Committee blamed it in part on the forthcoming election.

The Truman-Marshall dilemma is: They feel they must keep the people aware of the seriousness of developments abroad. Yet they also want to calm war hysteria and flutters which have prevailed and increased since the Communist grab in Czechoslovakia.

Marshall tried to do both at his weekly news conference in a brief extemporaneous statement. But his deporing of the passions that have been aroused in the United States was overwhelmed by other parts of his statement. These were his concurrent warning that "the situation is very, very serious" and his denunciation of the "reign of terror" in Czechoslovakia.

Eaton also appealed to the American people to look at the world "without passion and with calm, cool judgment." But he complained that Marshall had neglected to point out that the United States at

Democrats Seek Advice on Action

Washington, March 11 — (AP) — Democratic strategists sought advice from the "grass roots" today on how to advance President Truman's out-in-the-open candidacy.

National Chairman J. Howard McGrath called in key party leaders from a cross section of the country for a two-day party.

Simultaneously, Chairman Leon Henderson of Americans for Democratic Action, challenged the executive committee meeting to make "a determined fight" for the president's civil rights program.

The Dixie rebellion touched off by the anti-lynch, anti-poll tax, anti-job discrimination and other racial equality proposals in that program appeared certain to figure prominently in the committee's discussions.

The announced purpose of the session is to lay plans for the party's national convention at Philadelphia in July.

There the Truman forces are faced with a threat of some Southern delegations to walk out rather than see the president nominated.

While McGrath declared Monday in announcing Mr. Truman's candidacy that the chief executive's position on the civil rights program is unchanged, Henderson obviously sought to choke off any possible move to soft pedal the issue.

The former OPA chief wrote McGrath that the ADA, self-styled "progressive" political organization, is aware that "the pressure for party unity will be intensified as the campaign proceeds."

But, Henderson said, the support of "progressive forces" cannot be won by "theoretical challenge" to Southern leaders. He added:

"The major battles of the 1948 campaign will be fought out in the large industrial states of the North and West where the liberal-labor-the moment is in a "moral and intellectual log."

"This political situation is responsible in large measure for the fact that at this moment we have no fundamental, workable world policy and I don't see how we will have until the election is over," Eaton said.

Mickey Rooney Heads Cast in Saenger Feature

Mickey Rooney has a brand-new sweetheart in "Killer McCoy," punch-filled M-G-M drama in which he comes to the Saenger screen Sunday in his first mature role.

She is Ann Blythe, who joins Rooney, Brian Donlevy and James Dunn in a hand-picked cast.

The young actress has now reached a climax in one of the most remarkable success stories in Hollywood. After a fair start in musical-comedy roles, she achieved fame overnight with her first dramatic performance as Joan Crawford's daughter in "Mildred Pierce," for which she won an Academy Award nomination.

On the heels of that success, however, came misfortune. A broken back suffered while skiing. After nearly two years of inactivity, she bounced back to prove her ability again in stellar roles opposite Sonny Tufts in "Sweet Guy" and Burt Lancaster in "Brute Force."

In "Killer McCoy," dramatic prize-fight story, she plays the daughter of Brian Donlevy, and rails in love with Rooney against her father's wishes. As a result of her romances with the boxer, she becomes involved in a gangland war as gamblers seek to "ink" a big fight.

Roy Rowland directed "Killer McCoy." Sam Zimbalist is the producer.

Independent vote is decisive." Gael Sullivan, the national committee's executive director, told reporters in advance of today's session that the party leaders will be asked for advice with "accent on a positive program of action."
